

The most time-consuming and tiring unreps were the loads of ammunition. These were the most dangerous, as a mistake could prove disastrous to both ships.

