ENGINEERING SUPPLY

How would we ever have made it through the deployment without "Suggsy"? Digging through parts catalogs for stock numbers sounds easy, until you try it. Thanks is due him for coming through with that "spare part" time and time again, like clockwork. "Youngblood" must have hauled several tons of spare parts back to the tool room and engineering store rooms from the main deck after UNREPS. Nick has typed a mountain of requisitions, watch lists and correspondence. They are such an efficient organization, you never hear much about them.
